

Leadership Principles - 5 and 6

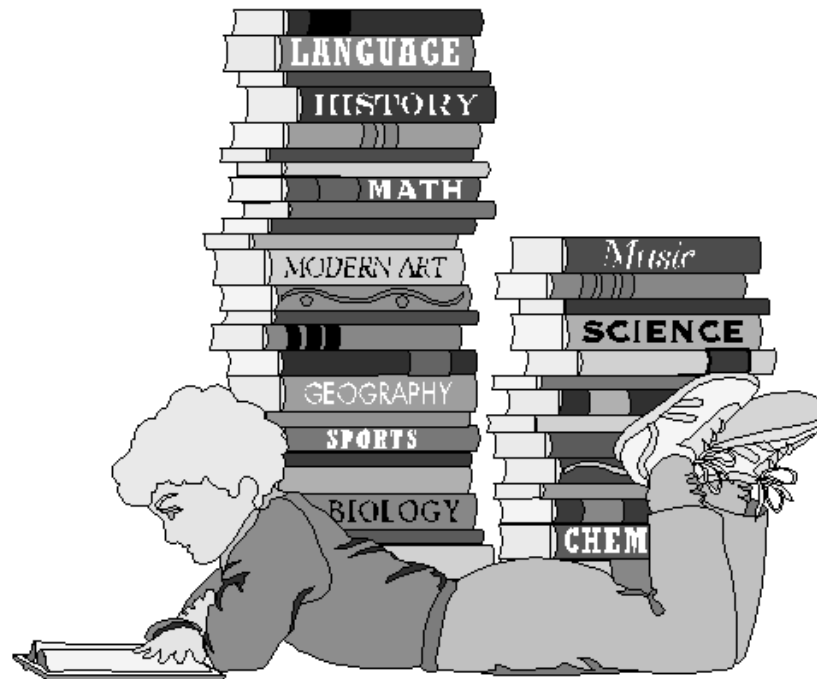

Review

1. Know yourself and seek self-improvement.
2. Be technically and tactically proficient.
3. Develop a sense of responsibility among your subordinates.
4. Make sound and timely decisions.

Two more...

5. Train your cadets as a team.
6. Set the example.

Train your cadets as a team

- Be sure they see themselves as a group rather than as individuals
- By having them work collaboratively, they accomplish more results and do so more quickly

Teams...

...work toward a common goal

...get better at working together the more they “practice” being a team

...give people a sense of belonging

Set the Example

- In the way you act
- In the way you dress
- In the words you speak
- In the attitude you display
- In the way you treat other people

An example, good or bad

- ...is emulated or copied by the people who witness it
- If cadets see you looking and acting professionally, they will take you seriously
- If they see you acting foolishly or dressed sloppily, they will not listen to you

Review

1. Know yourself and seek self-improvement.
2. Be technically and tactically proficient.
3. Develop a sense of responsibility among your subordinates.
4. Make sound and timely decisions.
5. Train your cadets as a team.
6. Set the example.