

Patriotic Poem

Poem To My Military Son

by
Shirley Evans

Poem To My Military Son

Today my heart was heavy,
As I watched you leave.
The moment I've been dreading
Is finally here ... it's hard to believe

Poem To My Military Son

As the bus was pulling out,
My eyes began to fill with tears.
Only a mother's heart feels this pain
After raising a son all those years.

Poem To My Military Son

I know your duty is to serve when needed,
And you have to go when Uncle Sam calls.
You'll be in my thoughts and prayers,
And your pictures are on my walls.

Poem To My Military Son

This is twice that I've watched you go,
Twice in wartime you've had to serve.
Your loyalty and patriotic duty
Could be more than we deserve.

Poem To My Military Son

Folks take things for granted,
Just living from day to day.
But when it comes time for war,
They realize who has to pay.

Poem To My Military Son

God Bless you, son ...
For your willingness to serve.
For there are a lot of others
That don't have the nerve.

Poem To My Military Son

Thank you for loving your country
Enough to leave your home this way.
Freedom isn't always free ...
There is always a price to pay.

Poem To My Military Son

Some people don't care,
Most people really do.
I for one appreciate it,
I wish you only knew.

Poem To My Military Son

My prayers are for our country
And all of the military it sends.
I'll fly the flag every day
Until you are back home again.

Poem To My Military Son

I pray for your safe return
And send you my love.
Keep your eyes upon God and
Ask for guidance from above.

Poem To My Military Son

